Fire Island National Seashore Hosts 2003 Science Conference at Brookhaven National Lab.

On March 24th, 2003, Fire Island National Seashore will host its fourth biennial Science Conference at Berkner Hall on the campus of Brookhaven National Lab in Upton, NY. Scientists and seashore staff will present the results of recent or ongoing natural resource inventories, monitoring programs and scientific research conducted on Fire Island and the William Floyd Estate. Experts from academic, government and wildlife conservation organizations will discuss current knowledge about shoreline change, plant and animal life and disease vectors.

Detailed directions to Brookhaven National Lab from various locations and a map of the central campus where Berkner Hall is located may be found on their website at <http://www.bnl.gov/bnlweb/maps.html>.
